

WATER: HUMANITY'S COMMON RIGHT

WHO IS IT FOR?

For the students of primary secondary school (9 – 13 years old).

It is done in English for the CLIL projects or in Italian.

DURATION: 2 HOURS

PURPOSE:

The workshop wants to build future active citizens, through role playing games and interactive learning.

GOALS:

- To understand how much water there is in the world and how it is unequally distributed.
- To sensitize about the waste of water and reflect with the youths about the contribution that they can make for the global change.
- To share ACCRI experience, explaining the Kenyan project "Drops of life".

The workshop promotes goal number 6 of the Agenda 2030, "Clean water and sanitation".

ACCRI: who are we?

ACCRI (International Christian Cooperation Association for a culture of solidarity between peoples) is a non-governmental organisation that works both on the national territory and in the South of the world with projects of development cooperation.
